Time Will Be Changed Once More in 23 States

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — It'll be time-changing time again Sunday in 14 states and parts of 9 others.

Daylight saving time officially ends at the unhandy hour of 2 a.m., at which time the time will become 1 a.m.

Very few people likely will sit up to 2 a.m. just to change their clocks and watches, however. And a good many may find themselves off schedule Sunday by forgetting to make the change either before or after the appointed hour.

Those with daylight saving time throughout the entire state at present are New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, California and New Mexico and Kentucky.

The use of "fast time" has been increasing throughout the United States in recent years, though it is usually opposed in farm areas. Many states and smaller areas also have lengthened the period in which it is observed.

Last year the Maine Legislature voted to extend it even further, beginning with the last Sunday in February instead of April as at present, if other northeastern states would do likewise. There has been no general action on the proposal throughout the region, however.

All of Iowa went on daylight saving time this year for the first time since World War II and again last Oct. 7.

In reporting to Johnson Thursday night on the investigation he had ordered, the FBI said:

"What have they got except make a campaign issue of Jenkins' statement?" he told a reporter later.

Election of ITU Officers Probed By U.S. Labor Management Bureau

The election of officers last to John S. Healey, director of the Denver office.

Healey said he was investigating an "active complaint" on the election. He said investigators were in Colorado Springs.

International Headquarters of the ITU are located here, as well as the union newspaper, the Free Press.

Healey said that findings of his agency would only be made public if the results of the election or election procedures go under litigation.

Elmer Brown, president of the International Typographical Union (AFL-CIO), said today "malcontents" are responsible for a complaint now under investigation by an agency of the U.S. Labor Department.

Brown, at union headquarters here, said the complaint was made to the secretary of labor by candidates defeated at the ITU election last May.

An official of the Bureau of Labor Management Welfare Pension Reports at Denver said his office is investigating the complaint but declined any details.

Brown said "snoopers have

Sartre Turns Down Nobel Prize to 'Collaborate'

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP) — Jean-Paul Sartre says he turned down the 1964 Nobel Prize for literature to remain free in his efforts to bring the cultures of communism and capitalism together.

"This is why I cannot accept any distinction awarded by high cultural associations, neither from the East nor from the West, even if I understand their existence very well," the French playwright, novelist and philosopher said Thursday.

"It is not the same thing if I sign myself 'Jean-Paul Sartre' or 'Jean-Paul Sartre, Nobel Prize winner,'" he told newsmen at the Swedish Embassy.

A spokesman for the Swedish Academy of letters, which selects the winner of the annual award, said the award stands regardless of Sartre's attitude.

He said the French author could give the $53,123 prize money

Pickle Packers Have Pickle Plan; Pass Up Pickles

By JOE DILL

CHICAGO (AP) — A person named Dill should never attend a convention of pickle packers. The temptation is really too much.

Miss Pickle and Mr. Mustard also were there, but Mrs. Burger couldn't attend.

"Come on, get off it," said one pickle man after reading the newsman's name tag. "No body named Dill would come to a pickle convention."

"It just ain't kosher," he added.

'Dirty Birds' to Be Wiped Out In Washington

By ANTHONY CATELLA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A purge of Washington's "dirty birds" — a $10,000 hotfoot for the starling population — starts Monday.

The project is aimed at keeping the birds away from famed Pennsylvania Avenue during the inaugural parade in January.

More than 1 million persons are expected to watch the parade and the pre-inaugural committee wants the spectators to be comfortable and secure — instead of wary bird watching.

The committee gave the bird-chasing contract to the National Bird Control Laboratories of Skokie, Ill., a company that describes itself as bird removal experts.

There is no estimate of Washington's starling population, but Joseph H. Fink, president of the company, says: "One thing is certain. The huge starling population won't be among the spectators."

Fink says his building and tree-trimming crews use "a gooey substance called roost-no-more which gives birds the bird in the form of a mild hot foot."

Once it is applied on trees or buildings, Fink says, birds will avoid the site for at least a day.

For bird lovers, starling or otherwise, Fink gives this assurance: "No harm will come to the birds routed by this project. The compound has an odor, which while imperceptible to humans, is offensive to birds. Birds find it unpleasant underfoot."

Nearly 100 trees from the Capitol to the White House — an area of the heaviest concentration of the starlings — will be treated. Fifteen men will use about 1,375 gallons of the chemical in the 15-day project.

After the hotfoot treatment, Fink says, "There won't be any dirty birds to diminish the dignity of the dignitaries on inaugural day."

Two Injured In Accident

An accident in the 100 block of South Cascade Ave. resulted in injuries to two persons Thursday, police reported.

Otto P. Reeder, 81, of 1112 Cheyenne Blvd., was southbound on Cascade Avenue at 4:15 p.m. Thursday when his car was struck on the right side by a car backing out of a driveway.

Dean Ernst, 34, of 1002 Yuma St., was driving the car backing into the street, police said.

A passenger in the Reeder car, Alice A. Reeder, 72, also of 1112 Cheyenne Blvd., suffered bruises of the right arm, shoulder and chest. Ernst suffered a cut right hand.

Both parties were taken to Penrose hospital for treatment.

second of two young handbag thieves raced from the hotel in the Back Bay section.

The other youth, 17 years old, was apprehended in the hotel lobby minutes after the two allegedly stole a purse from an employee's cloakroom. The second youth escaped in the crowd outside despite the shots.

Humphrey, who spent half a dozen hours in Boston on a campaign swing into New England, left the hotel for Logan Airport at 12:20 a.m., just 10 minutes after the shooting. It was not known whether he had heard the shots.

At the time, he was reported talking by telephone with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., younger brother of the late President John F. Kennedy, who is still hospitalized with back injuries suffered last June in a plane crash.

Leroy Marion Dunlap, 64, had been hiding his real identity since he escaped from jail here May 12, 1920.

Dunlap was arrested Thursday in a soldiers' home in Washington, D.C. He waived extradition and was returned here Thursday night.

Dunlap was confined in city jail, but a detective said he would be transferred to Summit County Jail. It was there that he and two other men sawed through a window and escaped.

The trio and another man were convicted in January, 1920, of slaying Steven Bossos, an Akron restaurant owner.

Dunlap, accused of being the triggerman, escaped two days after his trial started. He was convicted in absentia, as Ohio law provides, and sentenced to the electric chair for first degree murder on May 17, 1920.

Attorney Cletus G. Roetzel, the original prosecutor, speculated Thursday that only intervention by Gov. James A. Rhodes, or a new trial, should be granted, can save Dunlap's life.

"I knew it was coming," Dunlap said when he was arrested. "It has been a long time. I was hoping it wouldn't."

A retired serviceman, he had been living under the name of Harry Walker. He was traced to the home, where he had been living six years, through an FBI fingerprint check.

"Did they burn George Neichter?" Dunlap asked.

Neichter and his brother, Louis, both convicted in the slaying, escaped from jail with Dunlap.

George Neichter was convicted and sentenced to die, but was spared by Gov. James M. Cox just 13 minutes before he was to be electrocuted.

Louis Neichter was not recaptured. He died in a fall from a water tower in Massillon, Ohio, in January 1928. John O. Smith and Ralph Richardson pleaded guilty in the Bossos slaying and drew life terms. Both were paroled after serving 11 years.

After his escape, Dunlap said, he fled to Rochester, N.Y., working as a restaurant croupier. Then he enlisted in the Army and later the Air Force, retiring after 20 years of military service. Dunlap said he married and has a son living in St. Louis.

The delegation, led by Deputy Wing Commander Albert A. Rowe, left Peterson Field at 3:40 Thursday afternoon.

They joined contingents from the U.S. Military Academy and the Naval Academy on Delaware Avenue about a block from Union Station.

Cadets remained in position while the caisson bearing President Hoover's body passed on its way to the Capitol.

They will return to the Academy late Friday.

Accompanying the cadets is Maj. E. F. Rumsey and SMgt. William Coltrin, NCOIC of the Cadet Wing.

Nikita Becomes 'Un-Person' in Soviet Russia

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has become an unperson.

For a week now there has been no public indication in the nation he long dominated that such a man ever existed.

His picture has disappeared from public places. His books are no longer heaped in display cases.

It is nearest that the men who shunned him aside have come to admiring there ever was a Khrushchev is attacks on leadership failures obviously attributed to him.

Criticism of the "cult of personality" used to mean Stalin. Now it means Khrushchev.

The attacks may soon become more direct, naming Khrushchev and attributing all sort of sins to him. But, for the moment, he has been dropped to party meetings over the last eight years.

That was the term George Orwell used in his book "1984" for the incinerator that destroyed records. When policy reasons in Orwell's imaginary state dictated that a person should not have existed, all references to him were dropped down the memory hole. Histories referring to him went that way and so did current material. He became an unperson.

There are no sign that the books are being destroyed here. That would be difficult.

Leonid I. Brezhnev, the new first secretary of the Soviet Communist party, and Alexei Kosygin, the new premier, have pledged to carry on such Khrushchev policies as peaceful coexistence and improvement of living standards. They referred to party meetings over the last eight years.

The policy positions of those men were set forth in speeches by Khrushchev. That may be the reason his books, collections of his speeches, are still available on a somewhat surreptitious basis.

But Brezhnev and Kosygin in public statements have not mentioned that the policies were first clearly enunciated by Khrushchev. Thus, peaceful coexistence becomes "Leninist" again.

In recent years, the Soviet press and radio were full of references to Khrushchev.

A children's radio program on science referred to Khrushchev's backing of science. A program for farmers was full of Khrushchev's sayings on agriculture. An article on art referred to Khrushchev's leadership in artistic fields.

Now just anonymous policies are cited, usually with claims that the party is following Lenin's line.

The tide also is going out for Khrushchev's role in World War II.

Before he achieved power in the four years after Stalin died, Khrushchev was credited with only a small wartime part. In recent years he has loomed large in histories and anniversary articles, particularly on fighting in the Ukraine, where he was long the party boss.

The 20th anniversary of the liberation of the Ukraine from the Nazi armies would have been an occasion for lavish praise of Khrushchev's role. Instead, articles on it appearing after Khrushchev's ouster ignored him.

Some Soviets find strange this sudden disappearance of the man many of them had come to like for his ebullient personality and promise of better living.

One Moscow woman found it hard to believe that the three recent cosmonauts — whom Khrushchev had promised to receive in Moscow after landing — were not greeted by him, as he had greeted the six previous ones.

Miller Declares He Challenges Jenkins Report

(Continued From Page One) party chief, said that "the way in which comrade Khrushchev has been replaced leaves us worried and critical."

The Italian statement was still another sign of the increasing dismay among European Communists at the sudden, unexpected dismissal of Khrushchev in disgrace. Two days ago the French Communist party, the West's second largest, said it was going to send a delegation to Moscow to get an explanation.

The Italian Communists said they also would end a delegation to Moscow soon for talks.

The Italian party statement said China's nuclear blast "points up the danger of a further expansion of atomic armaments" and "has sustained legitimate alarm and worry."

Miller said earlier that the Johnson administration failed to recognize that the Soviet Union's new leaders "almost inevitably will take a tougher line," and that Britain's new government "has a soft outlook toward Red China and Russia."

The Republican vice presidential nominee also contended the administration did not understand that the United States was "about to be forced deeper in the war" in South Viet Nam.

Miller assailed the Johnson foreign policy in a statement issued as the New York congressman opened a motorcade campaign tour through six New Jersey communities, including Trenton, Princeton, Morristown and Newark and Jersey City.

Jenkins Did Not Risk Security FBI Report Says

(Continued From Page One) and "his mind was befuddled by fatigue, alcohol, physical illness and lack of food" at the time of the Oct. 7 arrest.

The President has said that until the day he asked Jenkins to resign he had no information that would have led him to question the personal conduct of his aide.

There was no immediate comment on the report of the FBI investigation from the White House or from Republicans. The Jenkins arrests have become an issue in the presidential election campaign, and Dean Burch, Republican national chairman, has charged the President with covering up the first arrest.

The report which FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover sent to Johnson and acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said Jenkins had been cleared on security checks in 1956, 1957 and 1958.

Hoover said Jenkins told the FBI "he would lay down his life before he would disclose any information that would damage the best interests of the United States."

Jenkins, 46, and the father of six, was placed in George Washington University Hospital by Dr. Charles Thompson the day Jenkins was arrested. The arrests became public knowledge. He remains hospitalized.

The physician said then that Jenkins was suffering from "insomnia, tensions and agitation" that he was "just worn out" from pressures that had built up since Johnson became President.

Thursday night the FBI said "extensive interviews of Mr. Jenkins' coworkers and doctors at the White House revealed that he was suffering from gross fatigue and overwork."</p

Hunting and Fishing

By DICK MOORE

Rain and snow in northern areas of the prairie provinces during late September and early October moved most early-migrating waterfowl out of western Canada. Migration has been unspectacular with birds moving south in leisurely fashion. Scap, mallard and other late-migrating species are on larger waters, with some areas holding exceptionally high populations.

Some pertinent facts about waterfowl in western Canada as outlined in the October issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological," prepared by General Manager Angus Gavin.

Geese have moved out in fair numbers. Migrations were noted Sept. 26 and 30. Another fairly large movement was recorded Oct. 7.

Gavin reports that "heavy rains received during the past month have not extended into the southern portions of the prairie provinces." He also points to the fact that both western Saskatchewan and southern Alberta remain "very dry," but with some good concentrations of birds on irrigation reservoirs and Ducks Unlimited projects.

The report describes weather and habitat conditions "at time of writing" as ideal. Temperatures recorded in the 70 degree range. Present situation can be expected to continue until weather turns colder.

An investigation of factors influencing the quality and palatability of venison made by the Utah Fish and Game Department would not try to renationalize Britain's steel industry. The Liberals oppose the government's taking over the industry again.

Among other things, investigators concluded that washing or not washing the carcass after field dressing, cooling immediately or bringing the deer in from the field within three hours of the kill (body heat still in it) had little effect on the palatability when other factors were controlled.

Judges found that aging developed better flavor and more tender venison, with the period of aging having more effect than any other pre-cooking treatment. They recommend one week of aging at controlled temperatures of 34 to 36 degrees. Three weeks developed meat with too fine a texture, and contributed to dryness.

Meat from animals two years of age and under was preferred to that of older animals. Tenderness decreased as the age of the animals increased, though the meat from older animals contained more juice.

Judges also found that meat taken earlier in the fall was better than that taken later in the year.

The Utah experimenter arrived at these recommendations for proper field care of the animal:

1. Cool the carcass in the field, overnight when possible. 2. Following the cooling period, bring the animal in from the field as soon as feasible and remove the hide. Removing the hide in the field should be done only if the animal is to be left there for several days.

3. Wash the hanging carcass with hose and brush, and leave it to drip dry. If facilities for washing are not available, good results may be obtained by wiping the carcass free of blood and hair with a clean, damp cloth.

4. Ever precaution should be taken to avoid abuse and contamination of the meat during cleaning and transportation. Skill in handling the meat will result in a better quality product.

5. Meat contaminated by gunshot wounds should be cut away prior to aging. The glands on the legs need not be removed prior to skinning.

Familiarity with your hunting country is the best bet for not getting lost. Before the season starts, or at least before you go into the woods in strange country, get out the map and study it well. Know the location and directions of any roads or streams, and be sure of the more prominent landmarks in the area.

A good compass is carried by even the most experienced woodmen, for they know that a foggy or snowy day can easily obscure the most obvious landmark, and worse yet, blot out the sun. Of course, just carrying a compass isn't assurance that you won't get lost. You should know how to use a compass to orient your map, to assist you in following a general compass bearing or direction, and to generally keep you advised as to where you are.

Maybe you're the type who never gets lost, but should you ever become confused for a few days, think how easy camp could be found with a map and compass.

No hunter wants to be involved in a gun accident while hunting. Indeed most hunters are extremely careful when in the field. However, many tend to drop their guard when returning to camps or vehicles.

Nearly three-fourths of big game season gun accidents in Colorado happen at or near camps and vehicles, according to Game Fish and Parks Department statistics.

The department suggests the following to help eliminate these needless accidents:

1. Don't load your rifle until well away from camp or vehicle, and unload before returning.
2. Point your gun in a safe direction while loading and unloading.
3. Never keep a loaded gun in your vehicle or camp ziles downward or 8 on a rack while inside a vehicle.
4. Carry guns with their muzzles downward or in a rack

CHICAGO (AP) — A teenager with a penchant for candy whose constitution was admitted more than 100 burglaries in the last nine months, police say.

John Doyle Cooley, 19, was arrested on the back steps of an apartment building Wednesday, carrying 30 chocolate bars in a brown paper bag, police said.

Police quoted Cooley as saying he enjoyed munching on a candy bar while looting taverns, groceries and bakeries.

Cooley was released from prison nine months ago after serving a sentence for burglary.

Guidance Experts Help Adults Find Life Work

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI)—Look who's going back to the little red school house—or the big glass and concrete one.

Adults. Especially adults who fidget about being in the right job—and others who are thinking of going to work but fog up mentally when trying to figure to what kind of job.

The National Association for Public School Education (NAPSE) says the shifting patterns of today's work world—resulting from automation and the diminishing number of low-skilled jobs—have brought more and more adults to the schools for advice on what jobs to train for.

If you're an adult who goes to the local high school for help out of the square peg in round hole problem, here is some information you would receive.

The counselor, after talking to you, would tell you:

—The level of general education you would need for a more suitable job.

—The length of time required for specialized training; where you could get it, and what it would cost.

—Level of intelligence of average person in that line of work.

—Activities most characteristic of the job; average annual earnings you could expect; how secure the occupation is; the opportunities for advancement; proportion of job openings to supply of qualified applicants in your area.

High school dropouts are prime guidance targets in many cities making efforts to lure the unhappy workers into some kind of education program promising work of a more satisfying nature.

In San Diego, Calif. for example, men and women who want to finish high school through adult classes are tested before school starts, or during the first week.

The aim of such examination is to make certain that they are placed in classes most suitable to their abilities and educational level.

counseling was provided by the Central Adult School when many local residents had to decide whether to move with their company to another state or seek other employment in the Amherst area.

In Pinellas County, Fla., educators are sold on the counseling programs created to help adults find courses best suited to their needs.

The program for the latter-day scholars was launched three years ago. Educators said counseling helped unsure adults get a clear picture of their talents, facilitating the planning of work-oriented courses on a realistic basis.

More than 100 adults a month have individual guidance interviews in classes at Pinellas County evening schools alone.

Should you go back to school for a talk with the guidance counselor—regardless of your education and age?

The answer reports the National Education Association (NEA), is yes, if——You have sometimes thought of attending adult classes, but lack confidence in your ability to learn.

—You would like to finish elementary or high school, but don't know how to go about it, or how long it would take.

—You would like to change your job, but don't know what kind of work would be best for you.

—You feel inadequate to cope with the problem facing you as a parent.

—You want to prepare for college and need information.

—You are not going back to daytime school but wonder how you could finish your education and hold down a job, too.

Modern Math Problems Offer Difficulties

CHICAGO (UPI) — Modern math isn't a must for every public school today, says an educator and consultant in modern mathematics teaching methods.

Reporting in "The PTA Magazine," Irwin K. Feinstein, professor of mathematics education at the University of Illinois, said there is real danger in rushing into a program of new math teaching before pupils, parents, teachers and the community are prepared for it.

One reason teachers find that "even after a long inservice preparation, the new math is difficult and that their teaching function is different. More cooperation planning and study are required than with a traditional program."

Perhaps he was a bit conservative in settling so readily for a mere small slam; however, an uncooperative nature placed even that issue in the balance.

West opened the ten of diamonds and, when the dummy spread, declarer fully expected to make a claim of all 13 tricks.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Here is a thought for those whose dining room tables are not large enough to accommodate extra guests during holidays and other times during the year.

We bought a four-by-eight-foot piece of plywood and placed it on top of our table.

The plywood should be at least three-eighths of an inch thick in order to stand up under the pressure at the edge of the table.

I never tried it but it sounds reasonable . . . —Nellie K. McClellan

Dear Heloise:

A standard question you get is one about condensation on windows. This is a problem which is usually limited to fairly new, well-insulated houses, especially those with aluminum sashes.

I solved my problem so simply it was absurd. I unlatched the windows! This breaks the air tight seal.

On dry, windy days I latch the windows! This breaks the air tight seal.

The condensation problem is usually limited to the cooking and eating areas, and the bathrooms, where there is an excessive amount of moisture. —Mrs. Fred H. Lehman

Dear Heloise:

You must dampen wallpaper to remove it from plaster-type walls . . . and must wet it so that it will all come off before applying new paper.

My suggestion is to spray the warm water on with your vacuum attachment. This is the attachment ordinarily used to spray paint, etc. —Allene Kellin

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever start to sew a button on a blouse or shirt (particularly a little boy's shirt) and find a hole where the button should go?

I cut a square of iron-on tape large enough to cover the hole, yet not large enough to show when the shirt is buttoned, and iron the square of tape directly on "top" of the hole.

If the hole is quite bad and needs reinforcing on the back, I iron a square of the tape there, also.

Then I sew the button in its proper place on top of the tape. —Pat Austin

Dear Heloise:

Perhaps some of your readers would like to try my idea for happier toddlers at mealtime:

Take paper placemats to the highchair trays, then give my girls two or three crayons and let them draw until the meal is ready.

This way, the children are not in my way in the kitchen, and they are happy and quiet.

The after meal clean-up is quick and easy since the trays have had the extra protection of the placemats! —Linda Leslie

Free Trade Coming

Walter F. Carey, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, is a forward-looking man. In a recent address in Houston, Mr. Carey predicted that we are moving toward a world which ultimately will accommodate free trade.

He specified that the official position of the Chamber was not in favor of free trade, but that it was coming whether we liked it or not.

"The tide of events is in motion," he said. "It is moving faster than we think and will not wait upon us. Our job is to be ready."

The Chamber's policy in recent years has been favorable to a lowering of restrictions on trade. Thus, while it has not advocated a laissez-faire world market, it has favored a world market with fewer restraints in it than exist at present.

As Mr. Carey sees it, the movement toward free trade is extant toward the ultimate extant toward the ultimate establishment of world peace and regional trade groupings such as the European Common Market, ganda to the contrary, a condition of peace is desirable. And Eastern, Far Eastern and Latin American blocs. Although they cross boundaries, our hands seem to be moving away from free trade by creating new discriminations against the rest of the world, as these groups later consolidate and adjust internally they will begin to reach out to form still larger groupings, merging and constantly expanding the areas of free trade until the ultimate is reached."

Mr. Carey is equipped with more than ordinary prescience. And when he pointed out, as he did, that the United States, "as the largest trading nation on earth, . . . inevitably will also move along with the trend," he was voicing a sound economic prediction.

Of course American producers, in some cases, fear free trade. But as they become accustomed to the idea, they will grasp the fact that while American markets may begin to absorb products manufactured elsewhere, American production will begin to be absorbed in foreign markets. In the end, it is the customer who counts in a free market. And the economic health of the world is predicated upon a world market that exists without government restraint or coercion.

From the standpoint of sound economic theory, each customer on earth should be in a position to buy the best product he can find at the best price available. He should not find himself penalized simply because he is.

We are encouraged to note that Mr. Carey is looking as far ahead as he is. This augurs well for the U.S. Chamber and for the future of our country.

How to Spot a 'Crackpot'

Fred J. Gruenberger, who is affiliated with the Rand Corporation, has come up with a dandy article in Science Magazine. He calls it: "A Measure for Crackpots" and it offers a check list by means of which one can distinguish between valid scientific work and counterfeit efforts.

Mr. Gruenberger's check list appears excellent for use in all physical science areas, and it occurs to us that with only modest alteration it would serve as the base for a check list in the humanities as well.

Item one, and rated high in importance, is the invitation of the scientist or the pseudo scientist to the public to verify the findings. The scientist is usually ready for this. He says, in effect: "I did thus and so, and the effect produced was as follows. Why don't you do it, and see if the same effect appears?" The crackpot says: "Only I can understand the results I have obtained. I and my devoted followers have the inside track. The rest is darkness."

Item two relates to predictability. The credibility of any scientific finding relates in some measure to the predictability of results. This has always been a major stumbling block for the humanities since it is predictable that individual human action cannot be predicted. But if scientists of the humanities as well as the physical scientists are on solid ground, some measure of predictability can probably be introduced.

Item three relates to controls which can be established and

Question Box

For What It's Worth

By RUFUS L. PORTER

We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government, which won't injure anyone!

Question No. 603: "How true is the oft-repeated statement that what you don't know won't hurt you?"

Answer: There is absolutely no truth in it, unless the word "hurt" means worry. What you do not know will not worry you but it certainly will eventually hurt you if it's on the subject of man's relation to man and men.

It is what you do not know in the long run that will get you into trouble. For instance where we have the popular vote, if you vote on what you do not know anything about and vote on a "something for nothing" measure, you will hurt yourself and everyone else.

Exactly the opposite is true, that is, what one does not know is what hurts him.

The quote is about as rational as saying that a man can know too much or have too much understanding and be too noble or too virtuous or too just.

The more everyone knows about what is right and what is wrong, the more we will come to believe that there is one universal single standard that applies equally to everyone. When more people understand this, the better off we will be.

We look forward to freer and freer trade with all foreign countries. The assumption that we improve our position as Americans in waging war against foreign governments is absurd on its face. War is slavery. It destroys and degrades. Also, it leads to reparations, to foreign aid and to any number of other unhealthy situations which are a bane on our existence.

There is nothing wrong with dealing with other peoples in search of profits. Nor will free trade leave our own businesses and industries "unprotected." The only real protection existing in any market is superior production and improved efficiency. We have never doubted the ability of Americans to compete realistically in a world market just as soon as the forces of union monopoly efforts and unrealistic government tariffs are removed.

We are encouraged to note that Mr. Carey is looking as far ahead as he is. This augurs well for the U.S. Chamber and for the future of our country.

Questions are limited to general human relations, questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

The experts say is part of the mental equipment of the scientist. The novice or the crackpot simply discards the experts on the grounds that once an expert has been proved to be wrong, this tends to discredit all experts.

Item seven deals with communication. The scientist tries (sometimes by being unnecessarily dull) to avoid "selling." He states his position as passionately as possible. The role of the crackpot is to convince rather than to explain.

Item eight relates to humility. The scientist seeks to exclude himself, to be objective, to remain humble and outside the sphere of his discussion. The crackpot is overly imbued with personal enthusiasm. He advances himself and his cause.

Item nine concerns open-mindedness. The scientist (ideally) favors challenges and will respond to them. The crackpot resents questioning and tends toward dogmatism and arbitrariness.

Item five relates to the utility of results. While pure science is essentially disinterested in practical applications of scientific discoveries, a certain amount of weight must accrue here. The scientist is apt to claim favorable results on the grounds of insufficient testing, weighing results as more important than sound reasoning or experimentation.

Item six relates to reliance on authority. While reliance upon prior experts and their findings is not conclusive, it is unquestionably helpful within limits. Total reliance upon prior authority is perhaps the greatest trap to confront the scientist. Experts have been wrong before. But a knowledge of what the preceding says is part of the mental equipment of the scientist. The novice or the crackpot simply discards the experts on the grounds that once an expert has been proved to be wrong, this tends to discredit all experts.

Item eleven is listed as paranoia. This is a negative finding and once more relates to crackpots. The crackpot may feel that he is being persecuted; that the world is against him, society arrayed to cut him down. But even a scientist may feel that he is being persecuted; that the world is against him, society arrayed to cut him down. But even a scientist may feel

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's consummate skill as a politician is now being displayed in his elaborate effort to focus attention on his role as a world leader.

Since last Thursday, when Nikita Khrushchev got the gate in Moscow, LBJ has been pulling out all the pertinent stops to make the most of the political advantage he discerned in this Kremlin commotion.

This effort was given an added lift by Friday's revelation of Red China's nuclear test. Even the not-surprising Labor Party victory in Britain was utilized to help build up the global-statesman image that LBJ sought in the climactic period of the Presidential campaign.

The whole Johnson show has been magnificently contrived. First, last Friday he canceled plans for campaign speeches. The crisis tag was not put on the foreign developments, but it would certainly be best for the President to remain in the White House for a few days.

Especially as Barry Goldwater had been making some mean digs about Lyndon being a "part-time President" and out politicking instead of being in Washington.

KREMLIN LEADERS' STABILITY DOUBTED

What the Congressional leaders learned was just about what they have been reading in the papers. The background on both the Khrushchev ouster and the Chinese nuclear device explosion has been adequately reported with the information coming from high State Department and intelligence sources.

First, about the Soviet government upheaval. It will be weeks if not months before the changes are clarified. The new Kremlin leaders are likely to be interim bosses, their stability questionable. Not until a strong new prototype like Khrushchev emerges is an East-West crisis possible.

Second, about the China bomb. It was known for more than a year that it would go off late this year or early next and that it would be years before the Asian Reds developed any nuclear war capability.

And third, what is so earth-shaking about the British election to encompass it with the Communist world's developments? It had been known for months that the Labor Party could win, which it did.

So all that the Congressional leaders actually found out at the White House today was what they knew before they came. But they served a political purpose — providing window-dressing for the President's effort to keep the focus on himself as a world statesman.

RAID PROTESTED
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — Government sources charged Wednesday that three South Vietnamese fighter-bombers attacked a Cambodian border village Tuesday evening, killing seven civilians.

The sources said the village was Anlong Chrey, in Kampong Cham Province about a mile and a half from the Vietnamese border. The sources said no Cambodian military forces were in the vicinity.

They said three women and two children were among the dead villagers, and that seven persons were wounded during the attack. At least 10 houses were destroyed or damaged, the sources said.

Film About Iceland Shown in New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new 28-minute film entitled "Discover Iceland" is the first comprehensive travel movie ever produced about the island republic in the North Atlantic.

The film, in 17mm, sound and color, takes viewers in tours of Reykjavik, the capital, and leading sightseeing landmarks throughout Iceland. Everywhere, bright flowers and green fields correct the misleading impression created by Iceland's "cold" name.

CAIRO (AP) — Talks aimed at ending the two-year-old civil war in Yemen have been delayed again by failure of the disputants to agree on what the negotiations should cover, authoritative sources said today.

The informants said the talks, expected to take place in Port Sudan, probably will not start until next week.

Christine Keeler's Phone Number Listed

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

LONDON (AP) — Christine Keeler, the 22-year-old call girl who was a central figure in last year's Profumo scandal, had a point in objecting to publication of her telephone number, says the British Press Council.

The council, government-sponsored guardian of newspaper ethics, said today it "deplores the action of the Daily Sketch" in printing the number.

Miss Keeler's attorney complained to the council. He said after the number was published, Ronnie Vette spent the week end with home folks. Ronnie is attending college at Lamar.

PFC young folks will have a roundup at Camp Iana Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Gas heaters have been installed in the cabins, so the camp will be comfortable during the cooler weather.

Miss Keeler received "a constant stream of abusive calls."

GOP Demands More Time on Television

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court has set Monday noon as a deadline for the filing of any additional arguments on a Republican party petition asking equal free radio-television time for Sen. Barry Goldwater to match a 20-minute broadcast by President Johnson.

The students of Hanover School have been selling subscriptions for magazines to the hospital in Colorado Springs.

The students of Hanover School have been selling subscriptions for magazines to the hospital in Colorado Springs.

The Federal Communications Commission ruled that Johnson's address last Sunday night on the change in leadership in the Soviet Union, the Red Chinese nuclear explosion and the British election was a news event and not subject to the equal time law.

The law requires that if broadcast time is provided for one candidate for office, equal time must be granted to other candidates for that office.

During the hour-long arguments before the federal court, the GOP said the FCC based its ruling on "erroneous factual and legal premises."

It also said the views of Republican presidential nominee Goldwater on the subjects Johnson discussed also must be classed as a news event.

Only one $2 ticket was sold on the winning combination of 2, 7,

The ticket was not cashed. The payoff is the second largest ever recorded on a twin in this country. The largest was $172,726.80 at Roosevelt Raceway in New York Sept. 10.

20 Acquitted Of Plotting in Viet Capital

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A military court acquitted today 20 persons accused of last month's attempt to overthrow Premier Nguyen Khanh.

The surprise decision freeing 13 military officers and seven civilians appeared linked with Khanh's drive to line up support before a new civilian government takes office next week.

The military will play a key role in the government and Khanh wants to run the military.

Earlier this week he released five generals he had been holding under arrest and promoted four generals and a colonel who supported him against the coup attempt Sept. 13.

The end of the nine-day-old trial followed a three-hour conference in the judge's chambers in which prosecution and defense attorneys and court officials participated. The chief judge, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Nao Le, then announced there was not enough evidence to support the charges of treason against the defendants.

Spectators in the packed courtroom greeted the announcement with applause and laughter. The defendants wore big smiles as they left the court.

The military defendants claimed they did not want to overthrow Khanh but were making a show of force to strengthen the military's rule. Two weeks before, Khanh, under mob pressure, had resigned as president, scrapped the military constitution and promised to restore the nation to civilian rule.

Five members of the National Assembly under the Ngo Dinh Diem regime also were among the civilian defendants.

Khanh and U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor attended an army graduation ceremony today at which a Vietnamese plane crashed into a group of huts a quarter of a mile from the ceremony, killing the pilot and severely injuring a woman.

The plane was one of five that was stunting for the ceremony, held at Thuduc, five miles north of Saigon.

A broadcast from Hanoi, capital of Communist North Viet Nam, said two South Vietnamese commandos captured in Quang Binh Province last June have been sentenced to death by a military court. The broadcast said the court sentenced six others to prison terms ranging from five years to life.

Violation of Geneva Convention Charged

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Prime Minister Moise Tshombe has proposed that the International Red Cross determine whether rebels in his country are holding hostages in violation of the Geneva convention.

Tshombe suggested in a communique Thursday that Red Cross observers be sent to the Congo to ensure proper treatment of prisoners.

Communist-backed rebels in the eastern Congo have indicated they are holding more than 800 whites, including 61 Americans, as hostages to discourage Congolese air force strikes. The Geneva convention — which the rebels haven't signed — prohibits the holding of hostages.

The Americans include Consul Michael Hoyt and four others from the U.S. consulate in Stanleyville, which fell to the rebels in August and became the capital of the so-called Congolese People's Republic.

GENERAL PLANTS TREES — The first of some 500 shrubs and trees is being planted by Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) and Fort Carson commander. The tree was christened "The Maroun Maple" in the ceremony at Fort Carson.

City Traffic Accidents Show Sharp Increase

Traffic accidents in Colorado Springs this year show a sharp increase over last year, according to reports compiled by Lt. Herb Tinsley, traffic bureau commander for Police Chief Cenil J. McKissick.

The score for the first nine months of this year shows 2,420 accidents compared with 2,077 for the same period in 1963.

There have been 487 injury accidents resulting in 697 injuries and four fatalities this year.

There were only 404 injury accidents and 547 persons injured for the first nine months of 1963, but there were also eight fatalities.

Accidents this year have involved 30 pedestrians, 56 auto-scooters and cycles and 34 bicyclists. There have been 586 intersectional accidents and 192 initiated by Gen. Maroun.

Inattentive driving caused most of the accidents as 759 such improper actions were listed on the 2,420 accidents. Other accident causes included the following:

Taking the right-of-way from vehicles, 504; following too closely, 346; speeding, 289; improper backing, 234; disregarding stop signs and signal lights, 108; improper turning, 101; driving under the influence of liquor, 70; improper starting from a parked position, 25 and failure to yield to a pedestrian, 4.

Enforcement action was taken in 76 per cent of the accidents causing 1,940 persons to be ticketed. Traffic accident investigation units investigated 1,585 or 65.5 per cent of the accidents.

Other traffic units investigated 341 or 14.1 per cent of the accidents and enforcement action on these was 75.5 per cent. Patrol units investigated 494 or 20.4 per cent of the accidents, with enforcement action taken on 79.5 per cent of those.

General Plants First Tree in Post Program

The first of some 500 shrubs and trees to beautify the housing areas at Ft. Carson was planted as part of a ceremony Wednesday.

Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) and Ft. Carson commander, planted the first tree near building 5705 in the noncommissioned officers quarters area.

A similar ceremony will take place at 9 a.m. Friday at quarters 7260 in the Carson officers area.

Post Engineer crews have dug holes for the larger trees and for hedge rows. Holes for shrubs will be dug by the occupants of the quarters where the plantings have been scheduled.

This is all part of the mountain post beautification program initiated by Gen. Maroun.

Reorganization of U.N. Was Sought by Nikita

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten days before he was ousted as Soviet premier, Nikita Khrushchev suggested that West Germany, India and Japan organize United Nations.

The story of Khrushchev's remarks was related by Aichiro Fujiyama, former foreign minister and a leading contender for the Conservative party leadership in Japan who said he talked with the former Soviet premier at a small town near his Black Sea resort.

West Germany is not a member of the United Nations.

Fujiyama said Red China should be admitted to the United Nations.

The Japanese said he was surprised by Khrushchev's remarks, but he thinks the major reasons for Khrushchev's ouster was unpopularity of the tough line he took against the Red Chinese. Fujiyama said many East Europeans did not agree with this policy.

24 Scooters Involved in Accidents

Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick said today that 24 motor scooters were involved in traffic accidents in Colorado Springs during the first nine months of 1964.

Nineteen of these were injury accidents, causing 23 persons to be injured. Chief McKissick added.

He said that drivers of 13 of the motor scooters caused the 24 accidents and drivers of other vehicles were responsible for the other 11.

Evens spoke of the tremendous need for more and better technical, vocational and general education if America is to keep its place as the leading free enterprise nation of the world.

Charlie Bickley, candidate for County Commissioner, Earl Fields and Harrie Hart, state representative candidates, also spoke. Vernon Cheever and Lawrence Skiffington, Republican state senators, presented their views on the state educational program.

Evens, who has served on the State Education committee while serving in Denver, said the business of education, while serious today, will be vastly more serious in the coming decades. The reason, Evans explained, is the great expansion of our population in the coming years combined with a rapidly automating society where only skilled workers are needed. Evans said that to meet the growing needs of America's schools and as other sources of revenue are exhausted there is a legitimate function for the 50 states in partnership to provide assistance to local schools as long as local control is maintained. He pointed out the Security-Widefield school district has for years used federal money and there hasn't been a hint of federal control.

The 14-year-olds were involved in five accidents, with three of them being responsible for the crashes. Those drivers 16 years of age were involved in four accidents, and were responsible for three of them.

One accident each was caused by a 27-year-old motor scooter driver and one 20 years of age.

Man in Rape Case Found Legally Insane

Richard James Slinger, 22, who has been charged in District Court with the rape of a young woman July 30 near Shove Chapel, has been judged legally insane by Dr. Richard Conde.

Slinger was one of two prisoners who escaped Aug. 21 from the El Paso County Court House. He was returned here on Sept. 28 from Indianapolis, Ind., to face the above charge and a second charge, assault with a deadly weapon on Thomas G. Arnold and William H. Thompson, both of Ft. Carson.

He had pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity and Dr. Conde was appointed by the court to examine him.

Slinger was scheduled to appear today in District Court for a trial date to be set on the sanity decision.

Four-Man Fight Stopped by Police Thursday

A fight between four men was stopped by two patrolmen Thursday night and three of the men were apprehended, police reported.

According to the report, Gordon J. Cameron, of Ft. Carson, was in a local bar with his date Thursday night when he was attacked by three men in the rest room of the bar. The bar bouncer broke up the fight and Cameron and his date left approximately 20 minutes later at 11:40 p.m.

As they were walking in the 100 block of E. Cucharras St., they were approached by the men from the bar, and after some talk a fight broke out. At this time Patrolmen Kenneth Trapp and Terry Hobt arrived on the scene and the fight stopped, and all three men fighting with Cameron ran. The patrolmen apprehended two of them, and took them to headquarters for questioning.

Cameron was bleeding from the forehead and was taken to Ft. Carson Hospital for treatment.

Cameron later signed complaints against two of the men, and the third was referred to the juvenile bureau since he is a minor, police said.

Evans Says LBJ To Carry State In November

"There is no question about President Johnson's carrying Colorado in November," Frank Evans, Democratic congressional candidate from the 3rd District, told an audience gathered on Washburn Field this morning.

"Everywhere I have gone during this campaign, the Democratic registration is up," Evans said, "and things keep getting better and better."

Evans spoke at a rally sponsored by the Teen Dem's and the Colorado College Young Democrats, just before he boarded a helicopter to take him on a campaign swing through the rural areas of the state.

Evans stated that he feels his race with Congressman J. E. Chenoweth is "a close one," but he said he is very confident of victory because of his "progressive and forward looking" ideas.

If elected, Evans said, he would represent every single person in his district.

His opponent, he said, with a few exceptions has not supported legislation that would help the district.

After his speech, Evans boarded the helicopter that had landed at Washburn Field and took off for rallies scheduled at Simla, Limon, Akron, Burlington and Flagler.

Wednesday Night Bad for Volkswagens

Wednesday night was a bad one for Volkswagens, according to two Sheriff's Office reports.

Phil Winslow told deputies that during the night Wednesday, someone removed four tires and four 15-inch wheels from a new Volkswagen parked in the rear of his lot at 730 N. Circle Dr. He estimated the cost of the missing parts at $164.

Glen H. Sholley, 517 Holly Dr., reported to the Sheriff's Office Thursday that sometime Wednesday night someone broke the left rear side window of his Volkswagen which was parked in the driveway of his home.

The report said the damage appeared to have been done with a fist.

Cost of the window was placed at $10.

Jury Finds Local Plumber Guilty on Two Charges

An installation called "definitely dangerous" by Carl Pittcock, city mechanical inspector, resulted in a finding of guilty on two charges against a local plumber in Municipal Court Thursday.

Jack Hedgecock, 60, 2306 E. Platte Ave., was charged with failure to obtain a master gas fitter's license, and with failure to obtain a permit to install or repair gas piping in connection with gas appliances.

A six-person jury returned the verdict.

Hedgecock was fined $50 on each charge, and will also have to pay $10 jury costs.

Eddie Ummel, 9 S. Limit, testified that he had purchased a 40 gal. water heater from Hedgecock on July 30, and that two men sent by Hedgecock had installed it the same day. The ordnance was being run out of existence.

The ordinances alleged to be violated were read to the six-person jury. Judge Allan Asher explained that the defendant is presumed innocent until the evidence presented demonstrates his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. The jury, he said, is to make a factual determination of whether the ordinance was violated, not to determine whether the ordinance is right or to fix the amount of the penalty.

Donald Goodman, 20, Climax, Colo., was found guilty of noise and riotous conduct. He was sentenced to 10 days in jail. On Sept. 28, he was fined $100, $75 of which was suspended. The $75 has now been reinstated.

Pigeon Lands On Destroyer Far at Sea

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP) — The bugler aboard the Dutch destroyer sounded the VIP call. Officers and sailors saluted and stood at attention.

Up the steps came a London plasterer named Bill Bush, dressed in overalls and an odd jacket.

"Your pigeon, sir," said Lieut. Comdr. Henk Smets, "is plump and well, and the most popular VIP we ever had."

Three weeks ago Bush's racing pigeon, Pamela, landed on the destroyer Amsterdam in the Bay of Biscay.

Pamela had been released from the Channel island of Guernsey to fly back to Bush's pigeon loft in London. Storms blew the bird 210 miles off course.

Exhausted and near death, Pamela was picked up by seaman Henk Springer who nursed the bird back to health.

The crew of the Amsterdam knew Pamela was a racing pigeon because it wore the leg band of the Fulham Pigeon Fanciers Club. The crew got in touch with the Dutch Embassy in London.

The embassy got in touch with the British Navy. Navy liaison officer Victor Webb telephoned the Fulham Pigeon Fanciers Club and learned the pigeon belonged to the plasterer.

More than 700 miles later, the destroyer anchored near the heart of London, and Bush collected Pamela.

Defendants Address Wrong in Story

Elli Youngblood appeared in Municipal Court Oct. 29. His address was given as 504 Wilkins St.

The resident at this address has informed the Gazette Telegraph that Youngblood does not live there.

Fremont Officer Named Sheriff Of the Month

Fremont County Sheriff Tom Coleman has been honored as Sheriff of the Month in the October issue of the Colorado Sheriff and Peace Officer magazine.

Coleman has received a plaque from the publication designating the honor.

The sheriff, who is a former rancher and rodeo performer, was elected to his office in 1958, taking over his duties in January, 1959. He was re-elected in 1962, the same year he received a citation from the Child Safety Council for his promotion of child safety.

Coleman's staff includes Valle Towne, undersheriff; John C. Calboun, deputy sheriff, and Norman Short, office deputy.

Coleman was born in Portales, N. M., on Sept. 16, 1909, and ranched in that state from 1936 until 1943 when he moved to Colorado. He ranched in the Walsenburg area before moving to Fremont County in 1946, where he became known for his rodeo participation, and lion hunting. He was a guard at the State Penitentiary from 1957 to 1959.

A former professional rodeo cowboy, Coleman has traveled extensively throughout the United States, and is widely known as a top performer in saddle bronc riding, roping, and steer wrestling.

During his term in office, Coleman initiated the Fremont County Sheriff's Posse, a group of 20 volunteer ranchers and horsemen who aid in special law enforcement assignments, and join the sheriff in the parade and rodeo event.

The sheriff is vice president of the Canon City Rodeo Association, member of the Canon City Elks, Odd Fellows, Footprinters, South Central Colorado Law Enforcement Officers Association, the Game and Fish Protective Association, Fremont Cattlemen's Association, and holds a life membership in the Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Recently, Coleman presented a film of various lion hunts that he has participated in to the peace officers association. Several news, outdoor and rodeo magazines have featured him in articles of his hunting and rodeo achievements.

Coleman and his wife, Elizabeth, live in the building housing the sheriff's office and the county jail at 409 Macon Ave., Canon City.

Burglars Hit Gas Station Again Thursday

Vern's Standard Station, 2902 N. Nevada Ave., was robbed again Thursday night, the second time the station has been hit in three days.

LaVerne Alvord, 1019 E. Columbia St., reported to the sheriff's office this morning that someone broke a window of the station last night and removed $25 in change from the cash register.

On Tuesday night, someone smashed a window to the station and pried open a cash box, removing cash and checks in the amount of $242.76.

Reckless Driving Charge Dismissed

A reckless driving charge against Gilbert Dillon, 24, 2419 W. Vermijo St. was changed to careless driving on a motion by Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac in Municipal Court Thursday. Judge Allan Asher levied a $25 fine against Dillon, who pleaded guilty to the reduced charge.

The crew of the Amsterdam knew Pamela was a racing pigeon because it wore the leg band of the Fulham Pigeon Fanciers Club. The crew got in touch with the Dutch Embassy in London.

The embassy got in touch with the British Navy. Navy liaison officer Victor Webb telephoned the Fulham Pigeon Fanciers Club and learned the pigeon belonged to the plasterer.

Judge Simon Moderates Denver Panel

County Judge Charles J. Simon moderated a panel of judges this morning in Denver on "The Philosophy of the Juvenile Court."

The panel was the fourth of a series of 12 seminars conducted by the Division of Youth Services of the Department of new posts have been set for fences at Union Highland cemetery. The manager also explained that 32 new trees have been planted this fall at the cemetery along the south fence for windbreaks.

City Attorney Erick Roberts noted that he is taking legal action for the condemnation of the Sorioto property at Santa Fe and Third streets. The council has ruled that the old two-story house is a danger to community health, safety, and welfare.

Beverly Sutherland and Charles C. Clark, of the El Paso County Juvenile Staff, were invited to attend the seminars.

According to Judge Simon, the basic philosophy of the Juvenile Court is that the care, custody and discipline of the child shall approximate as nearly as may be that which should be given by its parents, and that as far as practicable any delinquent child shall be treated, not as a criminal, but as misdirected and misguided, and needing aid, encouragement, help and assistance."

Jack Crook, intake officer for the El Paso County Juvenile Court, will take part in a conference this weekend at Washington University, St. Louis.

Hyman Crossbard, professor at Columbia University School of Social Work, will conduct the three-day seminar dealing with persons who resort to impulsive, acting-out behavior.

Four members of the judge's Juvenile Staff have been attending a seminar series on the special problem offender being conducted by the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education at Southern Colorado State College in Pueblo, the pre-parole center at Canon City, and the State Hospital.

They are Gary Holmes, Crook, Robert C. Raleigh and Paul Unruh.

Subjects under discussion have included the mental retardate, the addicted offender, the sexual deviant, the brain damage, the minority groups, the emotionally disturbed, the hard core repeater, as well as sessions on treatment intervention.

Outgoing board members will be Bob Cruzan, Darrell Lindsey, Harold Tibbs, and Barto Babitz. Holdover members are Bob Depple, L. L. Cotton, John Fox, and Gus Vendetti Jr.

The membership will first be polled by mail and then a second poll will be taken of the top ten members selected by the total membership of over 100.

John Fox, chairman of the retail merchant's committee, has been appointed chairman of the banquet committee. The annual banquet is slated for the first part of January.

Service Industry Growth Output Trails Economy

Since 1929 real output per man in the industries that produce services has grown at an average rate of only 0.7 per cent, as compared with an average rate of growth of 2.4 per cent in the rest of the economy, according to a new study published today by the National Bureau of Economic Research. The study is distributed by Columbia University Press.

The importance of these trends is underscored by the fact that the service sector, which includes trade, finance, public administration, and personal, professional, repair, and business services, accounts for more than half of today's employment and output in the United States and has provided all of the country's increase in employment since 1947.

Productivity Trends in the Goods and Service Sectors, 1929-61, A Preliminary Survey.

By Victor R. Fuchs, the first National Bureau report resulting from a Ford Foundation-financed study of productivity in the service industries. Other work currently in progress deals in detail with developments in wholesaling and retailing, state and local government, health, and personal services as well as specific problems for the sector as a whole.

While emphasizing the uncertainties surrounding the measurements, and indicating that the findings require further examination, the study points to some of the reasons why output per man in other industries.

One reason is that average hours per man have decreased more rapidly for employees in the service industries. Another appears to be the likelihood that the quality of labor — as reflected in education and other characteristics of workers — has improved more slowly in the service than in the goods sector.

A third reason is the lag in the growth of capital per worker in the service industries behind the corresponding growth in the goods sector.

While output per man grew in the service industries at a rate about 1.7 per cent per annum less than the growth of output per man in the goods sector, the differential in a productivity measure that takes account of changes in hours, in quality of labor, and in capital per worker is only of the order of 0.5 per cent per annum.

This suggests that sector differences in changes in technology and in the other elements affecting "efficiency" have been much smaller than those implied by the rates of change of output per man.

One of the objectives of the paper is to indicate the areas most in need of further research. These include the development of better measures of output for the large and rapidly growing service sector, and exploring the interactions among changes in labor quality, capital, and technology. "An understanding of these interactions is necessary," according to Dr. Fuchs, "if we are to explain adequately the complex dynamic process we call increased productivity."

Heinlein Blasts Obvious Waste Of Tax Money

"I was once a Democrat and active in many of the party activities on the West Coast but left the party when I discovered it to be infiltrated with Communists," Robert Heinlein, dean of science fiction writers, told Exchange Club members and guests Thursday.

Heinlein told the group, "though I'm a Democrat at heart, I became a Republican after reading Barry Goldwater's book, 'The Conscience of a Conservative.'

"As a writer, I'm impressed with what this man had to say in his book, and it is obvious the Communists were displeased with its contents," he said.

Heinlein quoted "Pravda" as saying that "this man Goldwater is dangerous and is apt to wind up in a pine box."

Speaking for Goldwater, Heinlein said that the Republican candidate, if elected President, would have the power not to spend tax money foolishly even though such funds had been raised.

"I have seen the result of tax money wasted in foreign countries," Heinlein said. In Indonesia, a country of 90 million people crowded into an area the size of California, and where laborers are paid with rice, the American government has used tax money to erect sound stages for the people," Heinlein said.

"Such is but one example of how the tax money of our people is now being wasted," he added.

Speaking of his visit to Russia, Heinlein said that after he was behind the Iron Curtain for a short period of time he felt stifled. "The Russians, from the time they are children are thoroughly indoctrinated in the philosophy of Marxism. These people will not change their philosophy because it is all they know. They live and breath the doctrine of Socialism from the time they learn to talk," he concluded.

Heinlein is the author of 32 books and more than 200 articles in various fields. His works have been translated into 24 languages. He has also done writing for Hollywood motion picture films.

In addition to his writing accomplishments, he is a graduate engineer and a graduate of the Naval Academy.

The Leyte landings marked the fulfillment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's promise, "I shall return."

Brundage Claims Medal Tables Are Misleading

TOKYO (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, has sent teams for the first time in compliance with the Olympic philosophy. The Chicago-based owner of the Olympic philosophy, who instructed the official review, has been against the most important thing in the Olympic games organization to determine their points system which sees Games is not to win but to take part, just as the most important thing in life is not the triumph but the struggle. The essential thing is not to have conquered but to have fought well."

The Olympic Games are contests between individuals and not between nations and cannot be used to measure different social or political systems, Brundage said.

Moreover, there are other ways which have been overlooked entirely and these are the first place awards to the city of Tokyo and the people of Japan.

For warmth and friendliness, for efficient organization and administration, for the beauty and architectural merit of the facilities and buildings, for a wonderful fine arts program, and for a sensational pageant.

And to the Japanese Olympic Committee for converting the 85 million people of Japan to the high principles of the Olympic movement. When those awards, a thousand times more important, are taken into consideration, Japan emerges as the Olympic nation No. 1 in all the world.

Joe Frazier Cops Boxing Gold Medal

TOKYO (AP) — Joe Frazier, 20-year-old slasher boxer from Philadelphia, outscored Hans Huber of Germany Friday night for the Olympic heavyweight boxing championship.

The gold medal was the only one in boxing for the United States, which won three in 1960, including Cassius Clay in the light heavyweight division.

Frazier was the only American who reached the finals after four had made it to the semifinals.

He was at the U.S. team only because Buster Mathis, a 28-pound monster from Michigan, broke a knuckle while working out with Frazier.

The 180-pound Frazier deserved a surprisingly stiff battle from Huber, who stood about a head taller. The closeness of the bout was reflected in the 14-12 verdict handed down by the five judges.

Frazier depended mainly on his left hook but wasn't at all consistent in connecting with it. He threw some 20 hooks in the second round and landed only about three.

The American scored in at the start of the third and final round but once again his hook was weak, and Huber scored with his left. He followed up with a right to the face.

Mathis, through the rounds, Frazier connected with a right to the body, one of the few rights he threw, and then hurt the German with two one-fists to the face.

TOKYO (AP) — A silk-smooth, inspired United States basketball team, stung by what-once-was-composed Frazier's narrow victory was the only one by an American boxer in contrast to the three championships won in 1960 including Nevin the United States for men's heavyweight champion Cassius Clay.

The 165-pound Philadelphia slasher boxer won the gold medal at the 1960 Olympics and crushed Russia 73-59 today. The Russian gymnasts collected seven medals including Nevin the United States for men's heavyweight champion Cassius Clay.

The United States was blanked.

The Russian total, however, was short of the 180 medals they collected in 1960 and even further behind the 110 forecast by a banner that mysteriously appeared in the Russian section of Olympic Village one night, and total medals only the first time just as mysteriously disappeared a few hours later.

The Russians have now dominated each of the last three Olympics. They failed to lead in their competition in the Games, in Helsinki in 1952.

In other events today, Fernando Atzori of Italy won the flyweight boxing. Takao Sakurai of Japan took the bantamweight, three Poles beat Russians in their finals — featherweight Jozef Grudziec, light welter Jerry Kwiecinski and featherweight Marian Kasprzyk — and light heavy Cosimo Pinto of Italy took the light heavy.

Henri Charminet of Switzerland won the individual dressage with 1,504 points. India beat Pakistan 14-0 and won the gold medal in field hockey and Hungary defeated Czechoslovakia 2-1 for the soccer champions.

That did it. The United States waited in their tents.

The triumph was one of the greatest of the 14-day run of the Games for the United States, but came on the day that the Russians made their greatest harvest of medals.

The Russians built their decisive medal total in this fashion. Their men's and women's volleyball teams took gold medals as did the Soviet team in sans fencing. The basketball team won a silver and defending champion Sergey Filatov.

Absent to a third-place finish in individual dressage in the equestrian competition.

The rest of it was the boxers and the gymnasts.

Fatherweight Stanislav Stepanov, middleweight Valery Popovchenko and light middleweight Boris Lagutin won gold medals. Silver medals were taken by light welter Eustachy Frolov, welterweight Richards Daniels, lightweight Wielton Baranowski and light heavy Alexey Kiselev.

Yankee Basketball Team Keeps Undefeated Record

By MURRAY ROSE

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. basketball team, mounting a smooth-working offense after a slow start, whipped Russia 73-59 today for the Olympic gold medal while keeping intact America's undefeated record in the sport.

This was the fourth time the two nations have met in the Olympic basketball final and it figured to be the toughest for the United States — against a strong, veteran Russian aggregation.

But after the Russians pulled out to a 14-11 lead, Luecio Jackson of Pan American College, Joe Caldwell of Arizona State and Larry Brown of Akron, Ohio, sparked a comeback that gave the United States a 28-25 halftime lead.

The U.S. team, coached by Hank Iba, put it away in the first five minutes of the second half with a 10-4 spurt that built the lead to 49-35.

The United States finished the tournament with a 9-4 record, 4-4 record in Olympic, and a 47-4 record in basketball since basketball six field goals Jerry Shipp of was added to the program in Bartlesville, Okla., counted 18 1966. It was the first loss in the on five field goals while Brown.

Birds Host Bulldogs Tonight

By TOM CUSHMAN

Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

It's that point in the season where they're all big games for the title contenders and Wasson's Thunderbirds are braced for one of the biggest ones when Centennial's speedy Bulldogs invade Wasson Stadium for a key South Central League battle tonight. The kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 and one of the top crowds of the fall is anticipated.

Gib Funk's soaring T-Birds enter the contest within sniffing distance of their second SCL championship, but a reversal this evening could swiftly alter the picture. At the midpoint of its league schedule Wasson flashes a 3-0 record and a full game lead over Pueblo East, the team vanquished by the Thunderbirds last Saturday, 14-0.

A win by Wasson tonight, coupled with a Pueblo South victory over East would mean that the Eagles could do no better than tie for the crown. It would also eliminate Centennial and the loser of the Palmer-Trinidad dad game from further contention.

Team Avg.—164

tion. Only the winner of that struggle in Trinidad would retain a chance of winning, the title outright.

On the other hand, a Centennial victory will throw the race into a torrid scramble. If East were also to win under those circumstances it would leave no fewer than four teams separated by just a half-game with only two weeks of the campaign remaining.

Wasson's chore tonight promises to be a difficult one, probably more challenging than last week's test against East's once-beaten Eagles. Centennial will attack the Thunderbird stronghold with the league's swiftest backfield, plus definite penchant for winning. The Bulldogs are the defending champions and with their title just one defeat away from changing hands, they can be expected to put up a furious battle this evening.

The question of title also has more than a little significance to the Thunderbirds. A year ago it was Wasson that surrendered the crown to Centennial during a conflict of league unbeatens — and by the horrendous score of 41-7. That was the worst defeat in Wasson history and the '64 T-Birds aspire to atone for that mishap.

Funk pronounced his team fit Thursday — but in the same breath, expressed a healthy respect for Centennial. It was Gib who, early in the campaign when the Bulldogs were not mentioned among the contenders, stamped the mark of one of the SCL's best on Centennial. His opinion has not changed.

"It really seems like they ought to be blowing people off the field," Funk said Thursday. "They have great speed in the backfield, Dutch Nogel (Trinidad dad coach) told me their line hit harder than last year's, and they never seem to make a mistake. Somehow they just don't seem to score much, but that can't go on forever."

Wasson has also had problems crossing the goal line this season. Early in the campaign when the Thunderbirds were going down to three straight non-league losses, it was a fumble that continually axed the offense. In more recent starts, that problem has lessened but penalties have moved in to do the same job. Major infractions crumbled two touchdown drives in the East game.

Nevertheless, Funk will face the Bulldogs with another of the league's potent offensive units tonight — and for the first time in three weeks his top-grade backfield will be intact. Bob Toof, the doughty little fullback who provides much of the zip, is back in the starting foursome after a week's total absence and only partial duty last Saturday. Despite the obvious threat he poses in the offensive backfield, Funk said Thursday he welcomes Toof's return still more for defensive reasons. "Not many people realize it, but he's one of the best defensive backs we've ever had at Wasson," the Thunderbird coach said.

Toof will thus combine with quarterback Jim Smith to provide the T-Birds with a dangerous one-two punch. Left-halfback Rod Wells has been running better weekly while the right-half chores are usually split between Bob Oyler and Bruce Meade. Oyler is considered the stronger runner and a superior blocker while Meade inserts unusually good speed into the Thunderbird backfield.

In the line the starting unit is expected to be the same as the one which gave a fine account count of itself against Pueblo East. That game provided the Birds with their first shutout of 1964 and East threatened seriously only once.

Although tonight's game appears as the really crucial one at the moment, things will not get better from here on out. Next weekend the Thunderbirds will face torrid rival Palmer in the annual intra-city conflict before closing out the regular season at Trinidad.

'65 Comet completes 16,200-mile durability run from Cape Horn to Fairbanks, Alaska, in 40 days

Shades of Daytona! Comet's famous for durability. Last year, specially equipped Comets ran 100,000 miles at Daytona to earn the World's 100,000-Mile Durability Championship.

Regular production-model Comets used, just like showroom Comets. Want to see the car that made it from Cape Horn to Fairbanks? Stop at your Mercury dealer's and check a 1965 Comet Caliente with smooth Multi-Drive Merc-O-Matic. The only difference: the run cars had an extra gas tank, because service stations are frequently so far apart in South America.

Immediate delivery! Production stepped up to meet the demand. No waiting, if you order now.

And remember, too, with all the talk about Comet durability, you might overlook Comet's new liveliness, beauty, and power. Don't.

Liveller Comet proves once again why it's the World's Durability Champion. Uses showroom models in day-and-night grind from the bottom to the top of the world.

FAIRBANKS, Oct. 22—A team of three Mercury Comets today finished a run no other car has attempted in so short a time—the rugged 16,200-mile marathon from Cape Horn to Fairbanks.

En route, day and night, the hefty Comets had no major repairs, just routine maintenance. Which should be ample proof that 1965 Comets are powerful and tough, not just lively and beautiful.

Palmer, on the other hand, does not have a serious aerial threat, although the Terror passing game has been improving since the first of the season. Palmer's strong point has been rushing, but there the Tribe has excelled. Palmer has rushed 1,182 yards in seven games, an average of 169 yards a game.

The moves brought the A's roster to the 40-player limit.

The club's newest players, now with the Athletics in the Florida Winter League are:

Bill Edgerton, 23-year-old left-hander from Osceola, Ind., who had a 12-11 record with Dallas last season.

Tom Harrison, 19-year-old right-hander from Bell, Calif., who won six and lost seven with Daytona Beach.

Jim (Catfish) Hunter, $75.00 bonus baby from Hertford, N.C., who was signed last June but did not see action because of foot surgery.

Don Buschhorn, a right-handed pitcher from Independence, Mo., 1-2 at Wytheville, Va., and 0-2 at Burlington, Iowa.

Joe Rudi, 18-year-old outfielder from Modesto, Calif., who batted .323 at Wytheville and 223 at Daytona Beach.

John Sanders, outfielder from Grand Island, Neb., who batted .433 at Wytheville.

Assigned outright to the Dallas club were pitchers Ken Sanders, Dan Pfister and Vern Handran and outfielders Jose Tartzabull and Jim Strickland.

"Of course, a lot of people think we have great speed this year, but it isn't too great. We couldn't stop Cramblit in the open last week. Elther's fast, or we're not as quick as some people say," Trinidad lost to non-league opponent Cheyenne Mountain last week, in an attack led by fullback Greg Cramblit.

"Our passing is pretty good," admits Nogel. "Although Bosso seems to have quite a few interceptions, he does a good job of throwing, particularly to Nardeen."

Injuries are, foreseeably, a trouble spot with the Miners. "We've had a lot of kids getting hurt. But they all are important people, mainly in the backfield."

Palmer has been a strong defensive team against rushing, but has not proven very effective against the passing game, except for last week's 15-9 victory over Pueblo Central, when the Terror forwards rushed the passer very well.

Palmer has allowed an average of only 117 yards a game on the ground. But Terror opponents have gotten around that low figure with an additional 81 yards a game through the air, giving them an average of 198 yards a game.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics announced the addition today of four young pitchers and two outfielders and the assignment outright of the contracts of five players to Dallas of the Pacific Coast League.

The moves brought the A's roster to the 40-player limit.

An Old Argument

One of the more frequently discussed topics among local fans who follow the prep football circuit may have a decision written before the curtain is pulled on the 1964 season.

Speculation ran rampant a year ago as Cheyenne Mountain cut a spectacular path to the state AA choice to represent that conference in the state playoffs.

In the South Central League, Wesson is out front at the midpoint of the race with a 3-0 record. Of course that situation could be considerably different a few hours from now but, on the other hand, if the Thunderbirds defeat Centennial, they will be close enough to start taking measurements for a crown-fitting. At any rate, both the T-Birds and Terrors are very much in the SCL race.

In accordance with the format for the playoffs, the WRL champion must initiate its move toward a state title against a representative of the Southern League, presumably either Lamar or La Junta who are scheduled to settle their differences Saturday night. Cheyenne, and its local playmates, attained AAA status this fall but by reason of common agreement their warfare is being waged in a new league. Members of the South Central circuit were not fond of any suggestion to disrupt their long-time rivalries and in turn, the newly elevated schools were not overly anxious to set into week after week action among the hardened AAA schools without first getting their feet at least damp.

Thus any prospect of an alignment of Colorado Springs' schools was erased before it became anything more than a conversation piece. So a meeting between the top suburban schools and either Wesson or Palmer was again delayed. There were not even any provisions for an exchange of stiff-arms on the non-league schedules.

As the season progresses, there is increasing indication that a solution may be at hand. If Cheyenne eludes the Widefield obstacle Saturday afternoon, the Indians will have clinched a tie for the WLR Rogers League crown. And, although it's naughty to put these things in print prematurely, Cheyenne appears as an extremely heavy favorite.

WESSON 20 CENTENNIAL 13

Much of the talk over this one has concerned Centennial's great speed. Somehow it's been ignored that there are some Thunderbirds who can fly too. Which all adds up to the idea that this could be one of the really exciting matches of the season.

PALMER 14 TRINIDAD 7

The Miners are not as incapable as they appeared last weekend but this is a year when the Miners can be whipped in the line and the Terrors have the ability to do just that.

PUEBLO EAST 19 PUEBLO SOUTH 6

The Eagles have several of their wounded healed and apparently sufficient speed to cope with the Colts' breakaway threat.

CHEYENNE MOUNTAIN 21 WIDEFIELD 6

The Indians are good — and getting better, especially in the line. And, as they say, that's where the majority of games are won.

CANON CITY 27 HARRISON 13

The Tigers are looking for someone to punish after those two one-point defeats and, unfortunately, Harrison is the WRL's most likely candidate.

ACADEMY HIGH 14 PUEBLO CATHOLIC 13

The Kadets have enjoyed some impressive evenings this fall and they'll need another one to get past the rugged Shamrocks.

Tigers Favored Tonight

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

It's now or never. This is undoubtedly what Harrison's football team must be thinking as the winless Panthers prepare to battle with another grid squad in that same predicament in their Will Rogers League finale tonight against Canon City.

Both teams have failed to record a WRL victory and tonight's game wraps up the league slate for Bob Irving's young charges. The game is scheduled for Canon City's stadium at 7:30 p.m. The Tigers should pull out the victory based on how the Canon City team performed in its last two games, dropping both games by only two points.

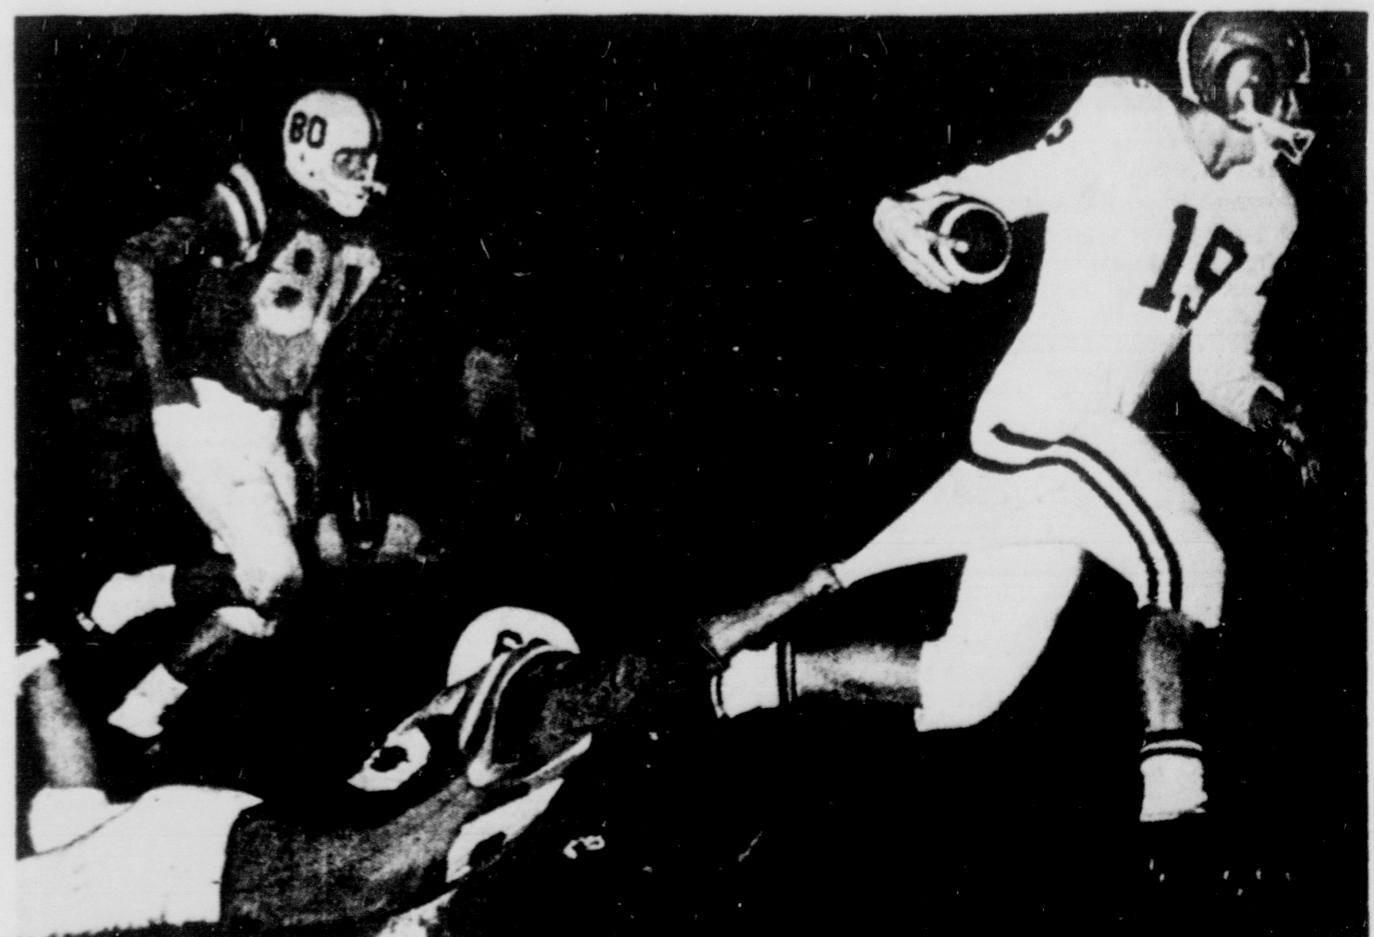

Saturday's WRL agenda calls for a showdown between the two undefeated clubs in the newly formed Triple-A loop as the favorite, Cheyenne Mountain entertains Widefield in a crucial contest for both teams. Kick-off time is set for 1:30 p.m. at the Cheyenne Stadium.

Meanwhile, that same night the talented Kadets of Air Academy High journey south to lock horns with highly regarded Pueblo Catholic in the opener of a twin bill engagement at Public School stadium in Pueblo. Game time is 7 p.m., preceding the Southern Colorado State College - Ft. Lewis 17 and the decision was to different story as Missouri would have had to change plans and open up its offense and take chances.

Sometimes these scouting reports prove correct. Sometimes they don't. Saturday will tell as far as the Boston College report is concerned.

HE GAVE HIS ALL-MOST — Larry Halsey of the Willman, Minn., high school football team almost ran right out of his pants last Friday night as his team walloped Montevideo, 42-7. Don Schutz of Montevideo had the almost-embarrassing grip on Larry's trousers but the runner broke away before he lost his britches. Coming up to help out is Mike Simonson.

Falcons May Run Against BC Eagles If Scouting Report Proves Correct

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

In modern top caliber collegiate football, one of the most important men on a coaching staff is the scout who keeps a peeled eye on upcoming opponents and checks the foe for several weeks on changes of both individuals and the system.

He usually restricts his activity to the enemy camp ground to the game day before his team plays, but when allowed he will keep a wad of charts and notes that would choke an elephant.

This, along with an exchange of films (often clipped to show only what they want), is used to prepare a team for Saturday's game.

The Harrison - Canin City game should be a wide-open passing game with the Tigers' aerial bomber Dan Scavarda directing the attack and the Panthers' junior ace Bill Doud countering.

Against Widefield last week, Scavarda completed nine of 14 passes and the Canon City quarterback tossed all three TDs.

Despite Scavarda's outstanding performance, the Tigers lost to Widefield, 20-19, for their second straight WRL defeat by one point. Earlier this season, the Canon City gridiron went under to Academy High.

The Cheyenne touted defense, which stopped Trinidad of the South Central League last week, 27-7, coupled with their bone-crushing fullback Greg Cramblit who scored all four TDs, the Indians are favored to record their third straight loop victory and clinch a tie for the WRL championship.

A week from Saturday, Oct. 31, the Cheyenne team takes on Canon City in its WRL finale.

Should the Indians defeat both Widefield and Canon City they will wrap up the first WRL championship and meet the winner of the Southern League for a berth in the state playoffs.

The Cheyenne touts defense, which stopped Trinidad of the South Central League last week, 27-7, coupled with their bone-crushing fullback Greg Cramblit who scored all four TDs, the Indians are favored to record their third straight loop victory and clinch a tie for the WRL championship.

A week ago, however, this reliability of a scouting report slightly backfired on the Falcons, Martin said this week. It was no so much misinformation but rather an improved performance on the part of one Missouri defensive back.

"One of the biggest factors in the Missouri game was that we under-estimated the ability of Ken Boston," Martin said. "His game against us was definitely his best of the season and I would rate him the best defensive back we've faced."

The plot was that the Falcons were to run away from the talents of Mizzou's Johnny Roland, who played the left side, and into Boston. Previous games indicated that AFA ends could probably "beat" Boston but Roland's speed might be too much to handle.

The way it turned out, the opposite was true. Martin said his pass receivers out-maneuvered Roland every time out, but couldn't shake the reactions of Boston.

"We wasted several plays finding that out," Martin continued. "And it was Boston that spoiled what I consider the key play of the game for us."

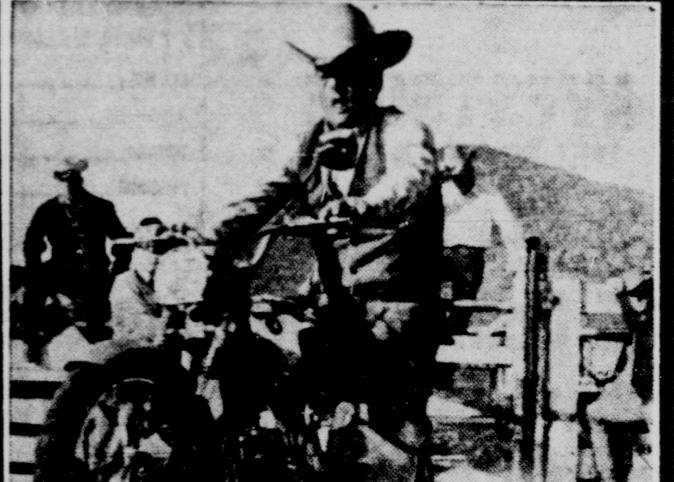

This key play came in the first quarter when the Falcons were apparently driving for a second score after marching right down the field with the initial kickoff for a touchdown. They had reached the Mizzou

Two One - Act Plays Slated At Ft. Carson

Two one-act plays and dramatic readings by Martin Freeman will be presented Friday, Saturday and Sunday, in Ft. Carson's Entertainment Workshop with curtain time set for 8 p.m.

Freeman will open with No speech from Cyrano de Bergerac and three poems from Walter Benton's Never a Greater Need.

Kauffmann's More the Merrier directed by William Deringer and Chekhov's The Boor directed by Paul De Ceglie complete the bill.

Freeman has read at La Chat Noir in Colorado Springs and at Xavier University, Cincinnati, Ohio.

School Students Schedule Clothing Drive

Students at Widefield Grade School have scheduled a community drive for used clothing Monday, Donald Joiner director of Widefield Elementary School announced today.

"The drive aims at the collection of at least 1,000 pounds of used clothing and shoes," Joiner said. "Clothing we collect will be to benefit destitute children and families in a multi-county area of the Southern Appalachian Mountains."

"In this way, we hope to help some of the Appalachian children who miss from weeks to months of school each winter for lack of warm clothing and shoes."

The drive's goal of 1,000 pounds would clothe approximately 150 children.

Looking At Hollywood

PETE SMITH RECALLS HELP HE GAVE DIRECTORS

HOLLYWOOD — After seeing "Behold a Pale Horse," Fred Zinnemann's latest picture, I called my pal and neighbor, Pete Smith, to ask how he liked the way his former students were turning out. Many top directors, among them Zinnemann, got their start working on "Pete Smith Specialties."

"Fred used to draw pictures on the inside of his script," recalled Pete. "Opposite every scene he'd make a drawing of what it should look like on camera. If there was a lamp or the actor entered rear left, Zinnemann drew it. The cameraman knew exactly what to do. It was the first time I ever saw that done. Many have used the method since."

Other graduates of the Pete Smith school are David Miller ("Captain Newman, M. D."), George Sidney ("Bye, Bye Birdie"), the late Buddy Adler who became head of Twentieth Century-Fox, Roy Rowland ("Two Weeks With Love"), Ray McCarey, and Will Jason. Although Pete worked for M-G-M, he was his own boss. All the studio told him was how much he could spend — not more than $25,000 per picture. The rest was up to him. If he went over the budget, it came out of his pocket. His 300 shorts are still being shown 'round the world, but Pete doesn't get a nickel from them. He signed his contract in the days when residuals were what was left in the bottom of a martini glass.

He was a fixture at Metro from 1925 to '55. A couple of years ago he married his secretary of 10 years, Anne Dunston, after a three-year courtship. They bought a ring at a variety store, flew to Las Vegas, and tied the knot. If Pete hadn't retired, he could have come up with a specialty on that. He's now indulging in rest, relaxation, and recreation. He fishes, golfs, and is working on a book called "Hollywood Ballyhooligans," about his days as a press agent. He once headed that department at M-G-M and in my acting days used to get my name in print.

Many years later he made a short called "Treasures from Trash," showing how Harry Lachman made wonderful household furnishings out of old junk, and couldn't resist giving me a plug. As a running gag, he had Dave O'Brien trying to make some whacky furnishings himself. At one point the top of a birdhouse flew up in the air and landed on his head; and Pete, who narrated all his shorts, said, "Well, a Hedda Hopper creation!"

It was a zany operation, that "specialties" department. Through Pete's portals filtered a weirdly diversified assortment of humanity. Scientists, athletes, professional pickpockets, animal trainers, magicians, professional pickpockets, and corporation executives — all there to submit ideas. Amusing but almost fatal were some of the visits. An enthusiastic jujitsu expert insisted on giving a demonstration with Smith as the subject.

Friday Is Worst Day of Week for Traffic Crashes

Not Sunday, but Friday is the worst day of the week for traffic accidents in the city, according to a report for the first nine months of this year compiled by Lt. Herb Tinsley, police department traffic bureau commander.

He said that 431 of the 2,420 accidents so far this year occurred Friday. Saturday was a close second with 403.

The least number of accidents — 241 — occurred Sunday.

On other days of the week, he added, there were 250 accidents Monday, 381 Tuesday, 303 Wednesday and 311 Thursday.

There were more traffic violations Saturday, however, as the report showed 1,629 that day.

Saturday was also high day for moving violations tickets issued with 1,513. Low day of the week in both of these categories was Sunday, while other days of the week ran nearly the same. Even on Sunday there were 1,227 violations and 1,170 moving violations tickets issued.

Worst time of the day for accidents was between 4 and 5 p.m., with 234 of the 2,420 accidents occurring during that time. Between 5 and 6 p.m. was second worst with 195 accidents. Only 10 accidents were reported between 5 a.m. and 6 a.m.

Most traffic violations were recorded between 11 a.m. and noon, with close competition in each subsequent hour until 5 p.m. There were 785 such violations during the peak hour.

There were only 45 such violations between 5 a.m. and 6 a.m. More moving violations tickets were also issued between 11 a.m. and noon, and the least — 25 — between 5 a.m. and 6 a.m.

County Commissioner Want Better Legislation

Proper legislation would increase the efficiency of all county government, County Commissioner Charles L. Smith told the Pikes Peak Sertoma Club at its regular Thursday luncheon.

"While El Paso County has employed the most modern methods in its administration there are many areas in which good legislation of the state level could cut unnecessary red tape," Smith pointed out.

Smith cited a report from an auditing firm which stated, "The report again reflects the results of the rapid growth of the Pikes Peak region. Gross collections by the county treasurer have increased over 20 per cent in the past two years. In this connection, however, it is interesting to note that the cost of county government has not increased nearly as much as the overall growth of the County."

Total expenditures in 1963 were $183,109.55 less than for the previous year, a decrease of 8.37 per cent. One reason for the efficient results which have been obtained in the administration of county government is the use of modern methods and equipment."

The report points out the need to change antiquated state statutes which lead to wasted time and bookkeeping confusion. One such law requires that the county clerk bill the commissioners

$10 per day for each day the Courthouse is open. The Commissioners then pay this amount, by warrant, to the county clerk, who in turn, pays it back as a fee collected by her office and it eventually ends up in the hands of the Treasurer where it originally started.

The October issue of the magazine features The Hancock Expressway with a four page account of the project together with seven illustrations. Smith said, "This highway will be invaluable to the people of this area and is a major step forward in the highway network being planned by the city, county and state."

Future plans for county highway development were outlined by Smith who said he felt that no increase in taxes were necessary to continue the program.
